Choose the right tools...

Regular readers of the magazine will know that last month we gave you the chance to win a ColorMunki Photo from DataColor. The nifty, palm-sized gadget can calibrate both your computer display/projector screen/laptop as well as your printer.

ColorMunki comes complete with a handy protective carry case, which also doubles up as a holder for positioning the tool on your display. The ColorMunki also calibrates your display within minutes and with no input from you except to watch the Munki at work. Calibrating your printer is almost as simple, with test sheets that you print out and then simply run the device.

The ColorMunki Photo works with both Macs and PCs and with all printers, so no matter what your setup, the ColorMunki will work for you. Calibration has always been seen as a chore and is an often overlooked, yet essential workflow process. The ColorMunki Photo allows this process to be quick, easy and effective for just £319.

Visit www.colormunki.com for further info or www.imagineshop.co.uk to order back issues of DP.

Calibrating your display, printer or entire workflow will be covered. Issue 74 of Digital Photographer is on sale 11 September 2008
