Colormunki

An all-in-one colour calibration tool that doesn't cost a fortune? X-Rite's Colormunki Photo could be the perfect solution. Designed primarily for social photographers, the Colormunki ensures colours match from display to print by allowing users to calibrate their prints by scanning two test charts and capture ambient light in a room or from any surface. It can also extract colours from pictures to create new colour palettes, and its self-executing application automatically checks for correct viewing conditions on images sent elsewhere. Colormunki Photo retails at £375.
